Rahab

TRANSFORMED BY GOD

Rahab is known as the woman who gave shelter to Joshua's two spies when they were sent to size up the take over of the walled city of Jericho. Enemy soldiers caught wind of the spies presence and surrounded Rahab's house. They demanded that Rahab turn over the spies to them which she was not about to do. Rahab told the soldiers that they had already escaped. With this they left. The grateful spies instructed her to hang a red rope out of her window on the day of assault. When the Israelites laid waste to the city and its inhabitants, the rope would identify Rahab and her family as allies, and they would be spared.
